

The design behind this mouse was to create something that allows your hand to rest on the mouse without much need to grip. I wanted to incorporate the feeling of a natural grip so you can see that the top part of the mouse is textured so that your hand will not slide off and even though it may look rough on the top, it almost feels like a rubber grip. On the left side of the mouse, there is a thumb rest so you won't have to apply pressure on the sides. Overall, the mouse is light and rests easily in the hand.
